This architectural floor plan depicts a long, narrow building, likely a school or institutional structure, oriented horizontally. The plan is characterized by a central, long yellow corridor that runs the entire length of the building. On either side of this corridor are various rooms and spaces, primarily colored in pink. At each end of the building, there are more complex room arrangements, including what appear to be classrooms or lecture halls, smaller offices, and restrooms. Stairwells are indicated by sets of parallel lines and arrows, showing vertical circulation at both ends of the building. The plan includes numerous dimension lines with numerical values, providing a scale for the building's layout. The overall design is symmetrical and functional, typical of mid-20th-century institutional architecture.
